The Chicago Baseball Club Jumps Over to the Majority - Hart and Robison Elected to the Board, Making Six in All-Talk About the Ruste Case - The Schedule Adopted. BALTIMORE, Feb. 26.—There is no longer a 'Little Seven" and a "Big Five;" it is now the "Big Eight" and the "Little Four," Chicago, which until now has been regarded as one of the quintet, deserted to-day and went over to the majority. All this occurred at the baseball meeting to-day, when Brush of Cincinnati sprang a resolution to add two members to the National Board of Arbitration. Thinking that the minority would be recognized, and that New York would surely be represented, there was no opportunity sition, and the resolution went through with a rush. It happened, however, that an agreement had been entered into before the magnates began business to take both the new members from the West, Hart of Chicago and Robison of Cleveland being the candidates determined upon. Hart eridently saw that he could gain nothing by sticking to the minority, and, as one of the mag pates expressed it, was tired of affiliating with a faction that, should it gain control, would put an end to Sunday ball playing.

The argument proved irresistible and Hart consented to fall in line. In blissful ignorance of the arrangements that had been entered into, the other four clubs engerly voted for Brush's resolution. When nominations were called for the names of Robison, Hart, Freedman, and Rogers were presented. Rogers, who must have had an inkling of what was coming, blandly declined the nomination. The fun began when the vote had been taken and it was found that Hart had received 9 votes, Robison 8, Freedman 3, and Rogers 1. There were 3 blanks. Boston, Pittsburgh, and Philadelphia declined to vote for either Hart or Robison and cast blanks inatend of voting for a second director.

When the vote was announced Freedman arose, and, white with anger, made a bitter speech, in which he arraigned the members of he League for ignoring the claims of the East He contended that either New York or Philadelphia should have been recognized, and said that as now constituted the West controlled the board. He spoke at some length, and when he concluded the opposition held that his point was not well taken, insamuch as the East was represented by Young, Byrne, and Soden, while the West had only an equal representation in the West had only an equal representation in Brush, Hart, and Robison. After this crushing defeat the New York and Boston people did not appear to take the same interest. In the proceed-ings, though they sat through the meeting. So bitter were they, that when the magnates ad-journed to have their pictures taken, Freedman, Soden, and Comant absolutely refused to join the group.

journed to have their pictures taken, Freedman, Soden, and Conant absolutely refused to join the group.

The other important action was the determination of the League to defend, as a body, the suit entered by Rusie in the New Jersey courts to break the reserve rule. It was argued that all the clubs were interested in this case, for while an adverse decision would not prevent the League from taking other means to hold the players, it was deemed best not to be placed in the attitude of evading the law. The New York Club will of course have to fight the damage suit without any assistance.

There was a great squabble over the rules reported by the committee, but after considerable discussion these were adopted with one exception. The coaching rule was so amended that only one coacher shall be permitted on the lines when there is one man on the bases, and two when there is one man on the bases, and two when the bases are vacant. The schedule was adopted unseen as at the last meeting adjourned until to-morrow. To-night the magnates were entertained at a banquet given by the Haltimore club at the Hotel Rennert. Childs signed to-day with Cleveland, and Schriver with Cincinnati. Esper. the Baltimore pitcher sold to Milwaukee, came here to-day to announce that he would not play with Milwaukee unless he got half the money received by Baltimore, and received more pay than is offered by Connie Mack. BOB COOK PAYORS NEW LONDON.

If Cornell will consent, the big three-cornered boat race with Harvard and Yale will be rowed at New London. Both the New Haven and Cambridge crews favor the course on the Thames, and are anxious to hear from the carsmen up the State. If, however, Cornell insists upon the Hudson at Poughkeepsie, the other universities will promptly fall in line, and the race will be rowed there. Bob Cook, the famous Yale coach, came out flat-footed yesterday in favor of the course at New London. He said that Yale naturally favored that place for the reason that the course was familiar, and that if Harvard could induce Cornell to row there the big event would not be held at Poughkeepsie.

"The four-mile course on the Thames," said Cook to THE SUN reporter, "is plenty wide enough for three crews to compete. The talk about eel grass is of no great importance, for it has really cut a very small figure in the past. In order to avoid this supposed obstacle, however, the course could be easily laid out with a short swerve away from the cel grass at the we- mile mark, opposite the navy yard. And Yale would also agree to waive the toss for positions and take the cel-grass side of the course anyway.

fats. The next mile and a half is through deep water and the current, after which the flats are water and the current, after which the flats are encountered again up to the finish. In order to make the course perfect stakes and buoys could be placed at the two-mile mark, which would cause all three coxewains to steer their crews a trifle out of the old straight course, thus veering away from the cel grass, and then steering a straight course to the finish.

"It may not be generally known that the original four-mile course at New London, overwhich I ale and Harvard have rowed so often, has always been 200 feet short, so that by establishing a small-bend at the two-mile mark the crews would come nearer to rowing over an exact four-mile course than ever before. As I said before, Yale would be perfectly willing to take the eel grass side of the course, so that the other crews could not complain."

"Then if the course has always been 200 feet short, how can any records be claimed by past winning crews!" the reporter asked.

"No authentic records for four miles have ever been made by college crews at New London, but there are several records for the course as it stands."

"Then you favor New London to Pough-been made by college crews at New London, but there are several records for the course as it stands.

"Then you favor New London to Pough-keepsie"

"Most assuredly. But at the same time Yale will not object to rowing at Poughkeepsie if Cornell insists. Some people may argue that it would be asking Cornell too much to row one race at New London and another at Poughkeepsie, but it is a matter of record that several years ago when Cornell had rowed one race on the Thames she picked up her boats and travelled all the way to St. Paul to row another race with Pennsylvanis. Therefore it seems to be much easier for Cornell to go to the Hudson after meeting Harvard and Yale at New London.

"The Thames is a natural rowing course. There is no traffic on the river to interfere with the crews in practice or strain their shells, whereas on the Hudson, except on the day of the race, smooth water is hard to find owing to the swells from passing craft. Then, again, the atmosphere at New London is more bracing for the men, as the sea air is constantly breathed, and the nights are so cool that sound sleep is assured. New London is the best place, from a social standpoint, too, to hold the race, and I hope that Cornell will favor it. Yale, however, has nothing to do with the selection of the course, as that matter is in the hands of Harvard and Cornell."

The members of the Harvard crew have unanimously voted in favor of rowing the big race on June 25, although that date is Class Day at Cambridge. The crimson oarsmen's decision makes the settlement of the date final.

New Haven, Feb. 26.—Capt. Balley of the Yale crew has telegraphed for coachers to come and ald him in developing the Yale Varsity eight. Bob Cook was to come last Saturday and stay three days, but falled to appear. It is expected that W. M. Beard and possibly George F. Adee will be on hand to-morrow.

The Quakers got the puck on the face off, and by good team work rushed it into their opponents' territory, where it stayed for the first ten minutes. Scoring was prevented by the good defence work of the Columbia lads. In an exchange of drives Orton secured the puck, and scored the first goal after fifteen minutes of play. Willet got another for the visitors just as time was called. Both teams fought hard in the second half, but the local players were lacking in team work, while the Pennsylvanians played well together, their passing being a feature. They scored three more goals, making the final score as follows: University of Pennsylvania, S; Columbia University, O. The teams lined up as follows:

Considera ble interest was manifested in the game of baskerball between the teams of the Brooklyn Latin School and Adelphi Academy at the latter's gymnasium yesterday afternoon. It was the regu-lar schedule game in the Long Island Interscholastic lar schedule game in the Long Island Interscholastic series, and there was a large crowd of students, including many presty girls, present when play began. The Latin School lads made a much better showing than in any of the prevous games, and although it was expected they would be defeated, the Adelphi team found them worthy opponents. The Latin School boys were very slow in covering their men, which accounts for the larges core made against them. The Adelphi lads played well together and covering their opponents in clever style spoiled many a threw for a goal. The score was Adelphi, 50 points: Brooklyn Latin School, 2. The teams:

COLLEGE ATHLETES MEET TO-DAY. Executive Committee Pave the Way for th

College men from various parts of the country began to arrive in town last night to attend the annual meeting of the Intercollegiate Athletic Association, to be held at the Fifth Avenue Hotel this afternoon. From present indications the meeting will be most harmonious, as there is little cause for friction among the various dele

The Executive Committee held the usual con erence at the hotel last night, their object being to outline the business to be considered to-day Those present were G. T. Kirby of Columbia. President of the association; S. M. Kendrick of the University of Pennsylvania, S. K. Girard of Yale, W. H. Vinceni of Harvard, Howard Bill of New York University, and Oliver Shiras of Cornell. After two hours' deliberation the committee adjourned at 11 o'clock.

President Kirby who attended the recent La A. W. assembly at Albany informed the com-mittee that the L. A. W. had granted the request of the association in passing the proposed amendment to their constitution regarding quest of the association in passing the proposed amendment to their constitution regarding college bicycle races. This means that in the future colleges can pay the expenses of their bicycle riders to the intercollegiate meet, and that the association will have full jurisdiction over all such affairs without first asking for L. A. W. sanction.

It was decided to recommend to the association that the incoming Executive Committee should receive power to amend the laws of athetics to govern bicycle races in accordance with the constitution and by-laws of the association and the regulations of the L. A. W. In other words the intercollogiate bicycle rules will be practically the same as the L. A. W.'s.

It was also decided to recommend that the Executive Committee in their discretion shall distribute the proceeds of the bicycle meet among colleges represented by not less than three competitors who shall finish in their respective heats, preliminary and tinal. By this it will be seen that only colleges who enter men in the bicycle races can have a chance to get the profits, if there are any.

The association will also be asked to pass on the auggestion that every man who competes for the first time shall be compelled as a condition precedent to his participation in the annual games to furnish a certificate in accordance with Article 16 of the constitution or be declared in-eligible. That is to say, such competitors must show a certificate signed by three members of the faculty that they have attended their studies for five hours a week since Oct. 15 preceding.

Another proposition is that the treasurer must send to each member of the Executive Committee a report of the financial condition of the association on the lest day of June and on the third Friday of each month.

A new amendment to Article 7 of the by-laws will be offered as follows:

The Executive Committee shall annually, in their discretion, declare a dividend, to be divided equally among the colleges which are represented by competitors in the annual track and field games by at least three men who shall finish in the track events or compete in the field events.

The applications for admission to membership from Boston College, Pennsylvania State Col-lege, and Haverford College will also be acted upon. The meeting to-day will convene at 2:30

Three More Events for the Coney Island Jockey

In announcing the Copey Island Grand National Steeplechase, the Bay Hurdio Race, and the Stirrup Cup, the Coney Island Jockey Club wishes to call particular attention to the latter, a race on the turf for horses three years old and upward at one mile and a sixteenth. The growing interest in hunting throughout the country and the great increase in the number of expert gentlemen riders leads the club to hope that they will give their personal support and encouragement to this thoroughly sporting event, thereby insuring to owners the certainty of their being able to get competent ridors for the horses they may enter. The conditions of the three events follow:

WHERE THE TIGERS STAND.

PRINCETON MAY NOT PLAY FOOT-BALL WITH PENNSYLVANIA.

Feeling at Old Nassau Very Bitter Because of Heve That Harvard Should Not Ignore Their Challenge-Talk About the Trouble

Princeton's position in the college football world is the subject for much comment just now, The signing of a five years' agreement between Yale and Harvard has made a game between the Figers and crimson somewhat doubtful, for Harvard has received credit for a desire to continue her relations with Pennsylvania in proference to the Jersey collegians. It was thought some time ago that if Harvard did not meet Princeton on the gridiron again, the Tigers would patch up their differences with Pennsylvania and renew the contests which created so much general interest a few years sgo. But a SUN reporter learned yesterday from the best of authority that Princeton will not listen for a moment to a proposition to play the Quakers, and that the Jerseymen are even more bitter toward Pennsy than ever before, THE SUN's informant said:

"You can state most positively that Princeton will not play football with Pennsylvania again under any circumstances. The Tigers have sent a challenge to Harvard and have delegated a member of the Graduate Advisory Committee to meet Dr. Brooks and ex-Capt. Emmons in case Harvard wants to open new negotiations. Bebring about another meeting with Harvard on the football field. No official word has been received from Cambridge regarding another game with Princeton, but certain newspaper reports have conveyed the information that Harvard may turn Princeton down for Pennsylvania. If Harvard does such a thing there will be no protest from Princeton, although that university will feel piqued at being ignored. "As far as Pennsylvania is concerned, you can say without fear of denial that Harvard would like to have both Princeton and Yale play foot-ball with the Quakers again. But Princeton will not entertain such a proposition, if it is made, for a moment. The feeling at Old Nassau is most intense against Pennsylvania. There made, for a moment. The feeling at Old Nassau is most intense against Pennsylvania. There was a time last year when there was a little friendly feeling between the Tigers and Quakers, but it was soon soon stamped out by an incident that created a storm of indignation at Princeton. Just after Capt. Cochran's men had badly defeated Cornell, Capt. Wharton of Pennsylvania went to Cambridge to see the Harvard-Carlisle Indian game.

"These facts have never been made public before, but they are true to the letter. Wharton had a talk with Capt. Wrightington, who was on the side lines, and informed him that Princeton had the strongest football team in the country. He also loid the Harvard captain that both Galley and Baird of Princeton were ineligible under the rules, and that it was an outrage on the part of Princeton to attempt to play them. Wrightington, who is a true sportsman in every sense of the word, naturally believed this, and thought it was his duty to investigate it. He told the facts to Coach Waters, who promptly brought the matter before the Harvard Athletic Committee. Prof. Beale then sent Capt. Dean of the Harvard inlie down to Philiadelphia with Wharton, who did his best to prove the charges against Galley and Baird, but failed signally. Then Prof. Beale applogized to Princeton, after the Tigers had threatened to keep their eleven at home. Thus it can be seen that Pennsylvania, through Wharton, did her best not only to break up the friendly relations between Harvard and Princeton, but also to prevent the game of last November from being played. In view of all this Princeton's attitude toward Pennsylvania can be appreciated.

"Pennsylvania has continually within the past year prated about the amateur standing of several Princeton men. This is a bit inconsistent, for the Quakers have many times been open to criticism on this particular point. There isn't a university in America that can mount a pedestal and say We are pure in sports, but all the others' infringe the rules. Therefore it is a strife absurd abandoned. It seems hard, though, to see any good reason why Princeton should be excluded when the Tigers have a clear title to the intercollegiate football championship.

Vales attitude toward Pennsylvania is not so strongly defined as Princeton s, but the feeling is presonmant that no game with the Quakers will be arranged. If, therefore, Harvard should ultimately decide to play Princeton and leave out "Pennsy," the latter would be practically frozen out of the football world. The settlement of this tangle requires a great deal of diplomacy, but something definite is expected in a week or ten days.

SOME DOGS STILL IN TOWN.

St. Louis Beach Show. There was plenty of bustle attendant on the cattering of the dogs on Thursday night after the closing of the Westminster Bench Show, but no accidents nor mistakes. At 11 o'clock a line of express vans and wagons was drawn up op-posite the Fourth avenue egress, ready to transort the dogs to the rallroad stations, and they were loaded up with little confusion. The canine passengers booked to leave from the Grand Central Station as a rule were walked up from the Fourth and Park avenue to the stations and he waiting rooms of the New Haven, Harlem and New York Central roads were crowded with big and little canines, to the wonderment of those regular commuters who and forgotten that there was a bench show in town. The baggage cars of the 11:15 on the Harlem and the 11:30 over the New Haven road were each a miniature bench show when the were each a miniature bench show when the trains pulled out. Those privileged old commuters, who claim the right to smoke and play cards in the baggage-cars, were crowded out by the barking dogs into the forgy atmosphere of the smoking cars, to the loy of the new commuters, who are never allowed the freedom of those comfortable haunts.

The dogs owned uptown were walked past the station and up Madison avenue. Their owners were not allowed to carry them on the surface cars, and, for company's sake, they formed into little squads. Each group of dogs and men, in spite of the late hour, was followed by some admiring street gamins. The jed dors usually left the Garden in state, for they were the "carriage company" of the big entilie party.

About seventy dogs will remain in the Garden until this morning, mostly sporting dogs and fox terriors owned at a distance, and at 9 o'clock they will start for St. Louis, where the beach show begins on Wednesday, in special express cars. The owners have clubbed logether and hired two special cars. J. Pierpont Morgan's collies will journey to St. Louis on the same train, but they have an express car to themselves.

Walter W. Watrous, President of the French Bull Dog Club, said yesterday that while the members have voted in favor of the bat, or tulip, each, the standard will not be definitely fixed until the next meeting on April 5, by which time the Kennell Club of France will have sent its standard to the new American organization. trains pulled out. Clendenning. latter will be required to file a bond of $15,000 with the Executive Committee. A resolution was passed to notify all creditors having claims against the League during 1896 or 97 to file them with the committee at once. A general discussion of League matters took place, the meeting finally adjourning until this morning.

President Potter of the L. A. W. declines to admit that the Chairmanship of the National Racing Board has been offered to George B. Gideon of Philadelphia for another year. Those, however, who are prominent in the councils of the League declare that the office has been tendered to Gideon, but that he is reluctant to accept it. A well-known magnate said yesterday that in the event of Gideon declining Fred Gerlach of Chicago will probably be the man. The latter has been the Western member of the board for several years, and is, in the of the board for several years, and is, in the opinion of Gideon, the best man fitted for the office. The only objection against the appointment of Geriach would be the fact that he took an active part in the recent campaign to defeat Potter for the Presidency.

The Associated Cycling Clubs of New York have decided to assume entire control of the Irvington Milburn road race this year. This event, which is the recognized cycling Derby of the East, is held on Decoration Day. This year there has been considerable talk of selecting a new coarse. The members of the metropolitan clubs, who have been identified with the management of the affair in past years, state that the race will be run as usual at Milburn, as the consent of the town authorities will be received.

New Orlkans, Feb. 26.—Jay Eaton was king in the second day's races of the Mardi-Gras tournament, winning both the mile and half mile open contests by long, hard-sprints against a stiff wind. Both races were wen in good time, 2:15 for the mile, 1:05 3-5 for the half mile, Winesett pacet in both contests. In the half mile the Elizabeth rider jumped out of the bunch, gaining a lead that landed him a winner, Gardiner worked hard, but was beaten at the tape by Stechaon, with Weinig fourth. In the mile Scatt pulled Weinig out against the wind, batton closed the gap and won by a foot from Weinig, Waltheur running third, a foot ahead of Starbuck, whose ninety-two gear held him back. Dan Bougherty, the St. Louis annateur, captured the third of a mile amateur contest cleverity, W. P. Castle running second, and Peabody, the crack Chicagoan, third. In the twomile handicap, amateur, the scraten men made no showing, owing to the wind. E. G. Bowen of Chicago and Shaw of Joliet, from the 165 yards, took the places. The attendance was again very slim.
